Report on Book Review Activity and Union Budget Discussion – 14th August 2024

On 14th August 2024, PCACS organized a Book Review activity that brought together faculty members and students to share insights from various literary and spiritual texts. The purpose of the event was to deepen participants' understanding of literature and scriptures, promoting both intellectual and spiritual growth.

Book Review Highlights

During the session, several notable books were discussed, including the Bhagavad Gita, Guru Granth Sahib, Draupadi, and the autobiography Wings of Fire by A.P.J. Abdul Kalam. Faculty members and students actively participated, engaging in meaningful discussions around these texts. The interaction fostered an environment of intellectual curiosity and reflection, making the event both insightful and enriching for all attendees.

Union Budget 2024-26 Discussion

Following the book reviews, faculty members provided an analysis of the Union Budget 2024-26, focusing on its key provisions and reforms. Particular attention was given to its impact on education, infrastructure development, and overall economic growth.

The principal in her concluding remarks, emphasized the importance of Micro, Small, and Medium Enterprises (MSMEs) in boosting the nation's economy. She encouraged students to think creatively and explore entrepreneurial opportunities, saying, "Students should take advantage of the current economic environment, use their innovative thinking, and contribute to the growth of our nation's entrepreneurial ecosystem."

This part of the event inspired students to consider new startup ideas and think about how they can contribute to the economy through innovation and entrepreneurship.

Conclusion

The event was a great success, combining intellectual discussions on literature with practical insights into contemporary economic policies. It fostered a spirit of learning and reflection, while also encouraging students to explore entrepreneurship. The book review activity and the discussion on the Union Budget provided a balanced blend of knowledge and inspiration for everyone involved.
